

Business Profile Questions – E News

Carol Frick – Realtor, Hannett, Wilson & Whitehouse
1st Vice Chair – Birmingham Bloomfield Chamber Board of Directors

What was your first job?

I taught horseback riding summers while I was in college. Upon graduation I taught 7th grade “block” (English & social studies) and 8th grade English at Berkshire Middle School. I didn’t start my real estate career until after my children were born.

What inspired you to choose your career?

Real Estate sales allowed me to work in my immediate community and provided the flexibility I needed with two small children.

What is your favorite aspect of your career?

The people part. It is very rewarding to help people find something as important as a new home. Many clients have become good friends.

What is your greatest challenge?

The current market and the effect it is having on people’s lives in this area.

What are you most proud of?

My involvement in Association leadership at the local, state & national levels. I believe that it is very important to “give back” to the industry in which you have earned a living.

Describe your management style... I’m not managing any more, but when I managed I tried to be an involved and supportive manager. I see a manager’s most important role as that of a support system.

When not working, I amGolf, tennis, gardening, dance class, my granddaughter and getting ready for a wedding!

I Splurge on...Things for my granddaughter and for my garden or house.

I Scrimp on... Not enough.
